

IMPORTANT BILLS FALL BY THE WAYSIDE WHEN CONGRESS ADJOURNS

Wilson Sees Great Work Accomplished By National Solons And Says It Will Stand Acid Test—"Every Man Should Now Be For Country And Its Peace," Says President.

By Associated Press.

Washington, March 4.—Congress adjourned today sine die. The Senate adjourned at 12:04 p. m. and the House, after turning back the hands of the clock adjourned at 12:18 p. m.

The total appropriations of the session were approximately $1,120,482,324, several millions under the record of two previous Congresses.

Two appropriation bills failed. Current appropriations for the postal service and Indian office were extended for another year.

In the closing hours President Wilson signed the seamen's bill, the neutrality resolution, empowering him to prevent ships leaving American ports with supplies for belligerent warships; promoted Colonel Goethals to be a major general for his services as builder of the Panama Canal and gave promotion to other officials associated with the work.

The Administration ship bill, the Philippine bill, the conservation bills, the rural credits provision of the agricultural bill and ratification of the treaties with Colombia and Nicaragua, all hard pressed Administration measures, fell by the wayside.

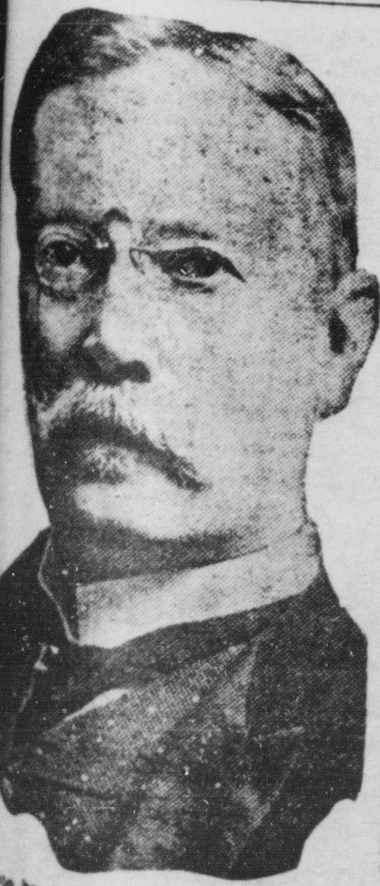

In the Senate several members, among them Senators Root and Burton, stepped back into private life as the curtain fell.

In the House Democratic Leader Underwood said goodbye to sit in the next Senate, and three score or more members retired.

For many minutes before adjournment there was a lull in the Senate. Absolutely no business was transacted. Senator Simmons paid a tribute to Senator Perkins, of California, who retired at noon. Senator Gallinger the even toward collecting notes of the bank.

Senator Collins, of Hamilton, asked Bainter if Knecht was not "excess baggage." Bainter said, "that is about the situation."

George W. Knecht later went on the witness stand and told the committee he did not think he had been overpaid, because of the heavy responsibility placed upon him by the liquidating work.

He admitted having compromised notes for $4000 given the bank by J. C. Martin, of Dayton, and agreed to turn over the notes to Martin on payment of $800 cash, thinking Martin could not pay more. He said Martin had suffered heavily in the flood.

Assistant Attorney General Ballard read court records, however, intended to show that Martin could have paid the entire face value of the notes if Knecht had sued.

CLAIM KNECHT WAS POOR HELP

By Associated Press.

Columbus, March 4.—The name of former governor Cox was mentioned for the first time today in connection with the investigation being made of the Banking Department affairs under former Superintendent Emory D. Lattanner by the Winans Legislative Committee.

John D. Bainter, bank examiner, testified before the Committee that George W. Knecht, of Dayton, had been recommended as liquidating agent of the defunct Osborn bank, of Osborn, by Governor Cox to Superintendent Lattanner.

Later he testified that Knecht had been entirely a superfluous employee as far as the liquidating work was concerned, that Knecht knew nothing about bookkeeping and did lit-

MORE BLACKENED BODIES REMOVED FROM COAL MINE

By Associated Press.

Hinton, W. Va., March 4.—At noon today it was announced that 35 bodies had been recovered from the Layland mine, where an explosion last Tuesday entombed 177 men. Little hope is now entertained that any of the buried men are still alive.

Engineers of the Bureau of Mines and State Mining Department have found evidences that the explosion was very violent and the entries badly choked with debris. Friends and relatives of the miners entombed waited anxiously today for news from the rescue crews. There was still much confusion as to the number of men who entered Tuesday morning. After canvassing the situation the Company made known the names of 177 who were employed in the works affected.

Whether all of them were at work when the explosion occurred officers of the Company admitted they were unable to say, but the opinion prevailed in the crowd of spectators that perhaps 20 had escaped the disaster.

DEAD MINISTER IS KNOWN IN FAYETTE

Dr. J. A. Story, superintendent of the Springfield District of the M. E. church, for many years has been a favorite in western Fayette, where the news of his death caused quite a shock to his former parishioners.

Dr. Story's first charge included what is now Center church, in Jasper township, but which then was a log church known as "Tadpole." He had marked success in his work at Center.

Each year when he has returned to Center called by his duties as superintendent of the district, the event has been marked by an all day meeting.

For years he has been entertained during his visits at Center, at the home of Mr. R. W. Marchant, where he was a welcome guest.

Funeral services were held at High street M. E. church, in Springfield, Thursday afternoon. Interment will be made at Mt. Washington, near Cincinnati.

Russians Defeat Austrians In Great Battle—Monster Krupp Guns Never Mounted Along The Dardanelles—Turks Declare Inner Forts Impregnable

London, March 4.—A Reuters still unmounted and an aerial reconnaissance made over the straits last evening seems to have confirmed this report.

The bombardment of the inner forts of the Dardanelles was resumed Thursday morning. Ten big warships took part in the operations. According to a British officer only two of the Turkish forts remained intact.

Allied landing parties found the charred remains of soldiers in the damaged forts, showing that the Turks had burned their dead before evacuating these positions.

On the other hand reports from Constantinople decide this activity as ineffective. The Turks, however, do admit the destruction of the outer forts, which they say they expected, but they declare the inner works impregnable.

Among other reinforcements, which are said now to make the fleet off the Dardanelles number over 50 ships, is the British battleship Canopus, last heard of as anchored off the Falkland Islands.

Representative Purdum declared finances of many cities in the state are in a deplorable condition, because there is no sale for their bonds since the amendment went into effect taxing these.

CONGRESS ADOPTS PRESIDENT'S IDEA

Enables Government to Enforce Duties as Neutral.

PUT THROUGH EACH BRANCH

Legislation Designed Primarily to Give President Power to Deal With Situation Arising Through Belligerent War Vessels Off the American Coast Being Provisioned and Supplied From American Ports.

Washington, March 4. — President Wilson caused an unexpected stir in congress when he asked for legislation to enable the government to enforce more strictly its duties as a neutral.

The legislation is designed primarily to give the president power to deal with the situation that has arisen through belligerent war vessels off the American coast having been provisioned and supplied from American ports by merchant vessels.

While the immediate purpose of the resolution was clear, its phraseology was of such a general character that some members of congress immediately expressed the conviction that the proposed legislation went far beyond its avowed purpose. Some insisted that the resolution in the form it came from the state department would empower the president in his discretion to lay an embargo upon the exportation of foodstuffs and other war supplies; that it would, in fact, give the right to declare war for the enforcement of American neutrality.

The resolution was hurriedly rushed through the house. When the resolution reached the senate a difference of opinion arose in the committee of foreign relations over the scope of the power conferred upon the president.

The result was that Senators Stone, Saulsbury, Swanson, Root and Lodge were summoned to the White House for a conference with the president as to the purposes of the resolution. They were closeted with the president until midnight. Material changes were agreed upon as to the phraseology by way of clarifying its intent, and in its amended shape it was put through the senate.

The resolution as it finally passed will permit the president to reach the German merchant vessels through refusal to grant clearance papers just as in the case of an American vessel under suspicion.

Springfield, O., March 4.—With a total operating expense last year of $304,637.09 the city of Springfield made a net reduction of $48,974.34 over the operating expenses of the previous year, under the city manager form of government, according to the annual report of City Auditor Frank B. Thomas, filed with the city manager.

The reduction comes principally in the safety and service departments, amounting to $22,453.59 and $24,094.75 respectively. An increase of $2,172.53 in the general purpose expenditures and $1,265.26 for the public library are shown, while all other expenditures show decreases in smaller amounts.

POMERENE MENTIONED AS WILSON'S RUNNING MATE

Washington, March 4.—Politicians are highly interested in the report that the administration has its eye on Senator Atlee Pomerene of Canton, O., as the possible running mate of Woodrow Wilson in 1916. Pomerene's term as senator expires in two years, when he will face a fight for re-election in Ohio. He has been a staunch supporter of the Wilson administration.

ORDERS B. & O. TO RETURN MONEY

Cincinnati, March 4. — In handing down a decision in a suit here, Judge Cushing in common pleas court ruled that the $1,000,000 insurance fund of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern railroad is illegal in the state of Ohio. The question came up in the case of Joseph Bailey, a switchman, who sued the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern to recover payments made into the insurance fund which he alleged were compulsory. Judge Cushing upheld the contention of Bailey's attorneys and ordered the money returned.

TURN ON ACCUSER

New York, March 4.—Frank Abarno and Carmine Carbone, the two undersized Italian youths, swiftly indicted by the grand jury for placing and lighting a bomb in St. Patrick's cathedral, turned on their accuser, the police spy who posed for months as their comrade and accomplice in anarchy only to cause their sensational capture, and told Judge Swann that the third man was the responsible party and instigator of their act.

It was the detective, Baldo, as they knew him, they said, the pick-up acquaintance of Carbone, who urged them to shoot off bombs and explode dynamite to better society; who "ordered" them to do what they did; who bought the ingredients of the two infernal machines they tried to use; who put into their heads "the idea of executing our protest;" who helped to make the bombs; who mentioned Rockefeller and Carnegie as prospective victims, and who encouraged them when they faltered in carrying out their plans.

JOHNSON-WILLARD FIGHT UNCERTAIN

El Paso, Tex., March 4.—Chances of a fight between Jack Johnson and Jess Willard went glimmering, even in the hopeful breast of Tom Jones, manager of Willard, when Jack Curley, promoter of the Juarez fight, called from Havana and asked Jones for his terms to come to Havana to fight. Curley's message is taken to mean that Johnson has absolutely refused to come to Mexico.

Democrats Drop Measure in Closing Hours of Session.

Washington, March 4.—With an absence of friction, the Sixty-third congress proceeded serenely to its end, which occurred by law at noon today.

All the appropriation bills were put through. The ship purchase bill, however, was dropped by Democrats in the closing hours of the session. Senator Fletcher, who had led the champions of the measure, announced the surrender to the opposition, after Senator Weeks of Massachusetts had given notice that the Republicans would talk it to death if it came up again.

As Senator Fletcher took his seat Republican senators who had conducted the filibuster gathered in the rear of the senate chamber and exchanged congratulations. "This ends the greatest fight in the history of the senate," Senator Lodge remarked.

The house, after spending several hours discussing the rivers and harbors substitute appropriating $30,000,000 for existing projects, concurred in the senate proposal and sent the bill to the White House. Both houses agreed to conference reports on the naval, diplomatic and consular and legislative supply bills without much trouble.

Rural credits legislation was thrown out of the agricultural appropriation bill and the bill agreed to in both houses and sent to the president carrying as a compromise on the rural credits fight the authorization of a joint committee of congress to report on the form of legislation needed for a system of rural credits before Jan. 1, 1916.

Washington, March 4.—With the expiration of the Sixty-third congress at noon today, nine senators retired from official life. Among them were some of the best known men in the upper house, some of the ablest and most experienced legislators. Of the nine, three only were candidates for re-election, Crawford of South Dakota, Bristow of Kansas and Thornton of Louisiana. All sought renomination and failed in the primaries of their parties. The other six, Root of New York, Burton of Ohio, Camden of Kentucky, Perkins of California, Stephenson of Wisconsin and White of West Virginia, were not candidates for re-election.

Burton leaves this month on a trip around the world. Meanwhile his friends have taken up his name for the presidency and are actively at work to promote his candidacy for the Republican nomination.

Poetry For Today

FIVE SOULS.

First Soul.
I was a peasant of the Polish plain;
I left my plow because the message ran:
Russia, in danger, needed every man
To save her from the Teuton; and was slain.
I gave my life for freedom—this I know:
For those who bade me fight had told me so.

Second Soul

I was a Tyrolean, a mountaineer;
I gladly left my mountain home to fight
Against the brutal, treacherous Muscovite;
And died in Poland on a Cossack spear.
I gave my life for freedom—this I know:
For those who bade me fight had told me so.

Third Soul

I worked in Lyons at my weaver's loom,
When suddenly the Prussian despot hurled
His felon blow at France and at the world;
Then I went forth to Belgium and my doom.
I gave my life for freedom—this I know:
For those who bade me fight had told me so.

Fourth Soul

I owned a vineyard by the wooded Main,
Until the fatherland, begirt by foes
Lusting her downfall, called me, and I rose
Swift to the call—and died in fair Lorraine.
I gave my life for freedom—this I know:
For those who bade me fight had told me so.

Fifth Soul

I worked in a great shipyard by the Clyde,
There came a sudden word of wars declared,
Of Belgium, peaceful, helpless, unprepared,
Asking for aid; I joined the ranks, and died.
I gave my life for freedom—this I know:
For those who bade me fight had told me so.

Charged With Killing Babe.
Bellefontaine, O., March 4. — Mrs. Charles Bentz of Lakeview, wife of a railway conductor, was bound over to the grand jury on a charge of poison-ing with morphine a two-months-old baby, in her home. She was commit-ted without bond.

Patient Drowned.
Gallipolis, O., March 4.—Thomas C. Coleman, a patient at the Ohio hos-pital for epileptics, fell into a creek and was drowned. His home was at Fairpoint, Belmont county.

The Younger Generation.
He had learned to play at tennis.
He had won full many a match.
On the ball ground he was famous—
He could pitch and bat and catch.
He could box and throw the hammer,
And at wrestling he was good;
He was thoroughly athletic—
But his father chopped the wood.

She was well informed on ethics,
She could formulate a plan
Which would show us all our duty
To our struggling fellow man.
She could write on household topics
In a manner hard to beat;
She embroidered fancy pillows—
But her mother cooked the meat.

The Law Cannot Act Too Quickly

The promptness with which the New York Grand Jury took action in indicting the two bomb throwers arrested Tuesday for attempting an anarchistic plot in which churches were to be wrecked, men of wealth killed and a reign of terror instituted in the metropolis, is the subject of general commendation.

Such a diabolical wholesale plan of destruction could only have been conceived and attempted by fiends or unbalanced fanatics, either of whom should be put where they can no longer be menaces to public safety.

Whether these two men, one only an eighteen year old boy, were the real instigators of the plot, or only used as tools by more experienced anarchists, remains for future developments to show, but that such a plot for dynamiting, looting and murder should have even been conceived is appalling.

Its utter defiance of law has startled the entire country to realization of the danger from the large anarchistic element which is stirring up the spirit of hatred and murder.

The law cannot act too quickly nor too rigorously.

Building Up of Pro-ductive Industries Contributes to Gen-eral Welfare :: ::

By JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR.,
Capitalist

© 1915, American Press Association.

MY father held that one of the best forms of giving was the building up of productive industries. But other things could best be done by giving to such things as education. To a small extent these great foundations have been intended to carry on my father's private philanthropies. AS HIS ABILITY TO CONTRIBUTE TO-ward EDUCATION INCREASED WE THOUGHT IT DESIRA-ble TO CRYSTALLIZE IN ONE ORGANIZATION THE SEVER-AL ACTIVITIES HE HAD CARRIED ON HIMSELF.

Then my father had the growing impression that the great cause of human misery was disease, and if he could find any way to contribute toward information that might prevent or eradicate disease he would be making a real, permanent contribution to the world at large. So the idea of medical research came to his mind because frequently it is so unproductive and costly that it does not recommend itself to philan-thropists.

The Rockefeller foundation was the most recently organized in order that various kinds of altruistic endeavors might continue to receive at-tention from the persons in charge of the fund.

THE ORGANIZATION WAS PURPOSELY MADE BROAD BECAUSE MY FATHER THINKS THAT EACH GENERATION CAN BEST TELL WHAT ARE ITS SPECIFIC NEEDS, AND THE MAN WHO TRIES TO PROPHESY IN ADVANCE IS NOT LIKELY TO DO AS MUCH GOOD AS HE WHO LEAVES IT TO EACH GENERATION TO ACT TO THE BEST ADVANTAGE.

GENERAL WOOD ENTERS DENIAL

Washington, March 4. — In a tele-gram to Secretary Garrison and in a personal letter to General Scott, chief of staff, Major General Leonard Wood has made it clear that in his forth-coming report to Secretary Garrison on his connection with the so called American Legion he will deny that he was associated with the movement in any but a personal and wholly unoffi-cial way.

General Wood's telegram to the secre-tary was with reference to one sent to the secretary and published by a committee headed by Bishop Greer, representing the American league to limit armaments, in which the latter denounced General Wood for his con-nection with the American Legion propaganda.

$22,000 APPROPRIATED FOR AUTOMATIC EXCHANGE HERE

Included in appropriations totaling $235,630, just made by the Ohio State Telephone Company, of which the Washington Home Telephone Company is a part, is the sum of $22,000 to be expended in automatic equipment for the local exchange, thus completing the work started by the company more than one year ago when new underground conduits, trunk lines, poles, and phone connections were installed throughout the city, and the physical condition brought up to a good point of efficiency, except the most vital part of the system—the exchange and instruments.

While little is known in this city of the latest developments, it is believed that the matter is definitely settled, and that within the next two to four months the present antiquated exchange equipment will give way to the modern automatic system and patrons of the company will enjoy genuine service.

It will be recalled that tens of thousands of dollars went into the local plant last year, preparing the system for the new exchange, and local citizens will watch with interest the further improvement of the system in Fayette county.

When the system is thoroughly modernized and brought up to the proper point of efficiency, an increase in rates is not unlikely.

$16,000 of the total amount just appropriated will go to the Youngstown exchange and $20,256 for a sub-exchange at Dayton.

The remainder is to be expended on a West Side exchange in Cleveland and for new equipment between Cleveland and Elyria. This expenditure is in line with what has been going on ever since the organization of the Ohio State last July, at which $2,350,000 was provided for extension and improvement work in the 15 cities in which constituent companies are located.

TAYLOR IS HELD UNDER $500 BOND

Grant Taylor, of near Waterloo, the man who shot at John Huston, Tuesday afternoon, was locked up in the Pickaway county jail in default of $500 bond, for shooting to kill Huston.

The man, who is a member of one of the best known families in his neighborhood, claims the cartridges used were blank, and that he meant to frighten Huston.

The trouble grew out of a feud of long standing, caused by Huston being a witness in a case and testifying against Taylor.

Taylor also is accused of taking an ax and smashing into bits the furniture of a tenant on the farm of his mother. The man was held to the grand jury.

THOMAS HARPER OFFERS REWARD

For the arrest and conviction of the pair of bandits Mr. Harper will pay $200. The Commissioners may also offer a reward for the bandits.

CASE CAUSED BY FLOOD DECIDED BY HIGHER COURT

In a decision rendered by the Court of Appeals in the case of E. E. Limle, and Andrew Rescher, plaintiffs in error, against Willis Robinson, defendant in error, the verdict of the common pleas court of Madison county is sustained, and the defendant in error, who was represented by Rankin & Rankin of this city, was awarded full amount of the damages—some $175.

The suit grew out of the flood of March, 1913, when Deer creek was a raging torrent and a large amount of gravel was washed up until it formed a huge bar on Robinson's side of the creek. Just below the bar a big slice had been scooped out of the creek bank on the Limle land and washed to some other point.

Mr. Limle claimed part of the gravel bar on Robinson's side of the creek, and removed a large amount before the suit ended the work. As the deeds to the farms fixed the farm lines with the banks of the creek "and the meanderings thereof," Mr. Robinson brought suit for recovery of the value of the gravel removed from his side of the creek.

The lower court returned a verdict giving Mr. Robinson the amount asked, and the case then was carried to the court of appeals with the foregoing result.

I. N. Abernathy represented Messrs. Limle and Rescher in the action. The victory for the local attorneys is one of a straight series of six or seven won by them in decisions rendered by the court of appeals.

OLD ENGLISH HOUSES.

In the Days of Wooden Huts, Thatched Roofs and Clay Floors.

The habitations of English common people for centuries consisted of a wooden hut of one room, with the fire built in the center. To this hut, if a man increased in family and wealth, a lean-to was added and later another and another. The roofs were of thatch, the beds of loose straw or straw beds with bolsters of the same laid on the floor or perhaps eventually shut in by a shelf and ledge like the berths of a ship or by a small closet.

The Saxon thane or knight built a more pretentious "hall," a large open room like the Roman atrium with a lofty roof thatched or covered with slates or wooden shingles. In the center of the hall a fire burned great fires of dry wood, whose thin acrid smoke escaped from openings in the roof, above the hearth or by the doors, windows and openings under the eaves of the thatch.

By day the "hearthsmen" and visitors, when not working or fighting, sat on long benches on either side of the fire and, as John Hay puts it, "calmly drank and jawed" or, gathering at long boards placed on trestles, regaled themselves on some sort of porridge with fish and milk or meat and ale.

At night straw or rushes spread on the floor formed beds for the entire company in the earlier and ruder days, when the "baser sort" were glad to share their straw with the cows.—National Magazine.

SEEING THE WIND.

Easy to Watch the Air Currents Flowing Like a Waterfall.

It is said that any one may actually see the wind by means of a common handsaw. The experiment is simple enough to be worth trying at least. According to those who have made the experiment, all that is necessary is a handsaw and a good breeze.

On any blowy day hold the saw against the wind—that is, if the wind is in the north hold the saw with one end pointing east and the other west. Hold the saw with the teeth uppermost and tip it slowly toward the horizon until it is at an angle of about forty-five degrees.

By glancing along the edge of the teeth you can "see the wind." It will be pouring over the edge of the saw much after the manner that water pours over a waterfall. This is doubtless due to the fact that there are always fine particles of dust in the air, and in a strong breeze the wind forces against the slanting sides of the saw, slides up the surface and suddenly "pours over" when it reaches the top.

It is doubtless the tiny particles that Humor in Old Wills.

A certain Lieutenant Colonel Nash left an annuity to the bell ringers of Bath to "toll dolefully" on each anniversary of his wedding day, and contrite Mr. Withipol of Walthamstow left the bulk of his property to his wife, "trusting," he says—"yea, I may say as I think, assuring myself—that she will marry no man for fear to meet with so evil a husband as I have been to her."

Mr. Jasper Mayne at least considered himself witty when he bequeathed to his valet a wornout portmanteau, as it contained something, said the will, which would make him drink. The excited valet ripped open the trunk and found a red herring in it. So, doubtless, did the Scotch gentleman who in 1877 left to his son's care his two worst watches, "because," he said, "I know he is sure to dissect them."—St. James' Gazette.

The longest courtship on record was that between Franz Rosner and Anna Renner of Oberpoltitz, Bohemia. They had been courting for seventy-five years, but repeatedly deferred the bridal day. At last Franz became fatally ill and was recently married on his deathbed at the age of 100 and died two days later. The age of the widow is ninety-three.—Exchange.

COUNTY SHIPS 81,000 SWINE IN 9 MONTHS

Figures on file at the office of the local branch of the State Bureau of Live Stock Industry show that while returns given to the assessors showed some 40,000 swine in Fayette county, that in the nine months ending January 1, 1915, the number of fat hogs sold and shipped under permits reached the enormous total of 81,000 head.

If the 81,000 head averaged 200 pounds, and there is good reason to believe they did, the total number of pounds would be 16,200,000 for the nine months.

At an average of seven cents per pound the swine shipped out of the county in the nine months were worth $1,134,000, and it is believed that the figures are very conservative.

The present year is expected to witness a decided increase in the number of swine raised, for obvious reasons.

MAN RETURNED TO STATE HOSPITAL

Probate Judge Allen made a trip to Columbus Wednesday for the purpose of ascertaining the reason the man was refused admittance, and found that the institution is overcrowded. However the officials agreed to accept Holcomb, and did. It is understood that both the hospital for the insane and the institution for feeble minded youth are overcrowded, and 500 feeble minded youth cannot be admitted at the last mentioned institution.

Much interest has been aroused all over the country in the performance tonight of Will Taylor, Fayette county boy, in the Senior Amateur Athletic Union of North America Championship athletic meet in New York City.

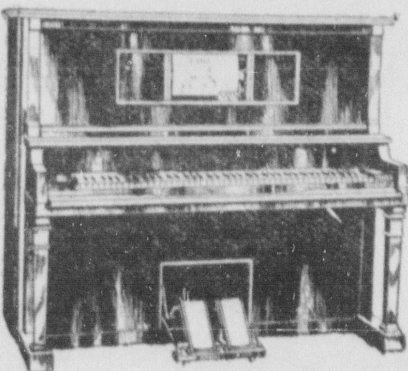

Taylor will enter in the standing broad, standing high and the three-stand broad jumps and will contest against Platt Adams, world champion in these events. The contest is generally conceded to be between Adams and Taylor and the opinion is about even. If Taylor wins in any of these he will be a world champion.

Messrs. Herbert Brownell and Walter Hamilton are in the Metropolitan at this time and have stated that they will witness the meet.

CECILIANs GIVE SUPERB CONCERT

SNUG AMOUNT REALIZED FOR THE WELFARE ASSOCIATION AND AUDIENCE ENJOYS LAUDABLE WORK OF MANY OF CITY'S MOST TALENTED MUSICIANS AT THE HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM LAST NIGHT.

A noteworthy musical event of the season was the Cecilian Club concert, given for the benefit of the Welfare League, at the High School Auditorium Wednesday evening.

A cultured and representative audience expressed appreciation of the delightfully chosen program put on by the artists of this musical club, in repeated recalls.

The program opened with a vivacious and beautiful Cecilian chorus, "The Vine Gatherers"—Denza.

Mrs. Mary G. Burgett, always a favorite, was in exceptionally good voice and her sweet smooth contralto gave effective rendering of "Oh For a Burst of Song"—Allitsen. A beautiful cantata, "The Garden of Powers"—Denza, was sung by Mrs. Lona G. Hughey, Mrs. Winnie Wilson Shoop, Mrs. Lillie G. Davis and Mrs. Ida H. Pine. Its changing melodies buoyant, fascinating, poetic and plaintive, were most artistically given in quartets, duets, trios and solos.

The character of the music and the finish with which it was given testified to large amount of preparation on the part of each participant.

Mrs. Constance Ballard Claggen demonstrated anew her extraordinary ability as a young pianist in two numbers (a) "Arabesque"—De Bussey; (b) "March Winds"—McDowell, and a storm of applause continued until her reappearance. Her warmth of temperament, brilliancy of technique and delicacy of touch combine in rich musical equipment and her stage presence is as charming as the melodies she evokes.

Mr. James Kneisley, violinist, and Mrs. Margaret Stitt, pianist, found immense opportunity for their rare musical talents in the Mendelssohn Concerto. The beauty of its intricate composition was marvelously brought out and aroused the wonder of the audience that a composition of such difficulty and length could be so mastered without sight on the part of the violinist.

A gem of the evening was the closing number, Dutch Lullaby, "Wynken, Blynken and Nod," in which Mrs. Hughey's brilliant, lyric soprano rose superbly clear and sustained in the obligato solo and a trio composed of Mrs. Shoop's beautiful soprano, and Mrs. Burgett's and Mrs. Pine's deep contraltos, carried the accompanying melody.

Mrs. Stitt proved herself a wonderful accompanist, her difficult work a prominent factor of the concert's success.

Mrs. Morna Blessing Chapman, substituted Mrs. Eva T. Craig's work as accompanist with only a few hours foreknowledge, with the skill of the born musician.

The club effort netted a nice sum for the Welfare League.

TOM THUMB WEDDING

Fifty little children will be made happy in presenting a clever and funny entertainment, in fact, two entertainments in one, and many fathers, mothers and children will enjoy seeing and hearing the fascinating affair which the members of the Epworth League have arranged to present at Grace church, Friday night, March 19.

This unique entertainment comes from the producing department of the Eldridge Entertainment House, Franklin, Ohio, under the management of Mr. J. Bassett Willard, who is not a stranger here, he having sent the funny "Singin' Skule Begimment" which has played to splendid audiences twice. The entertainment this time will be the "Tom Thumb Wedding," with its mirth and screams, and the tuneful operetta, the "Quest of the Pink Parasol," with its pretty song hits and spirited choruses and pretty costumes.

Miss Blanche Smith, a graduate of the Ada, Ohio, School of Expression, will come to attend to the coaching, drilling and staging.

With remembrances of the many splendid entertainments so successfully presented by the Epworth League, no doubt the public will again appreciate their endeavor to present something new, clever and entertaining.

WELFARE NURSE FILES REPORT

Miss Anna L. Sutton, the Washington Welfare Association nurse, whose commendable work is beginning to attract widespread attention in this city, has completed and filed her report for the month of February.

The report, in addition to showing a vast amount of other work, shows that 170 visits were made during the month. The 170 visits are divided up as follows: nursing, 38; instructive, 90; friendly 22; miscellaneous, 20. The number of active medical cases totaled 13. Other cases 10.

Cases reported, 18; other cases 20, making a total of 38. The medical cases were diagnosed as follows: tuberculosis, 3; heart trouble, 1; pneumonia, 2; pleurisy, 2; abscess, 1; maternity, 2; paresis, 1; infant feeding, 2; rheumatism, 1; appendicitis 1. Cases dismissed cured, 2; improved 1; to family, 1; died 1.

A little reading between the lines will indicate the amount of work accomplished by Miss Sutton for the month of February, and the work is just opening. The sewing class recently organized now contains eight members, and they are entering into the work with a remarkable show of eagerness to learn not only sewing, but other important household duties.

POSITION OF GOVERNOR IS UNCHANGED

Stands For Abolishment of State License Commission.

VIGOROUSLY DENIES REPORT

Agricultural Decentralizer in Committee Awaiting Opinion of Attorney General Turner—Taxation Measure Temporarily Held Up in the House—Rumors of Legislative Deal Denied.

Columbus, March 4.—Efforts are being made to effect a coalition of forces in the senate and house in support of a so called decentralizer which would continue the state license commission as the central authority, but would eliminate the direct agency of the governor in making appointments of district or county license commissioners by repealing the present provision that these appointments be made with the approval of the governor. A report that the governor, the leaders of the majority party in the legislature and the Hamilton county delegation had agreed upon this proposal was instantly denied. "I never heard of such a bill," said the governor. "So far as I am concerned," he added, "I stand where I've stood all along, for the abolishment of the state license commission and for the appointment of county or district license commissioners by some one or more of the elected county officers."

Chairman Smith is holding the agricultural decentralizer, the Smith-Mallow bill, in committee, awaiting an opinion from Attorney General Turner whether the supreme court decision against state oil inspection fees was applicable to the fees charged for inspection of commercial feedstuffs and fertilizers.

The Beidler bill, providing decentralization of tax assessing for the present year, was blocked in the house by Minority Leader Kramer, who pointed out an error in sectional numbering. For this reason Majority Leader Whittemore had the bill put over.

Attempt is to be made to reconsider the defeat of the Reighard bill abolishing the four state supervisors of the teaching of agriculture. The bill was lost by a vote of 49 to 63, the Republican lineup being broken and the Democrats voting solidly against the bill.

The Kious resolution, creating a commission to report plans to build a state office building, was adopted by the house. The house adopted the Stivers resolution, directing Adjutant General Hough, State School Superintendent Miller and Colonel George Converse, commandant of the military department, Ohio State university, to report on plans for military education in all colleges and schools. The vote was 66 to 33.

Rumors of a deal between Hamilton county with the conservancy advocates and with the Cleveland delegation for the state boxing commission bill, asserted by Cromley of Knox, brought denials and more assertions. Rover, the only one of the ten Cincinnati members who opposed the bill, said the proposition had been put up to the Cuyahoga members by the Cincinnatians, "You vote for our bill or we will kill the boxing bill."

Smith of Butler, leader of the conservancy forces, defied anyone to say he had asked promises in return for his vote for the Bruck bill.

The Garver bill amending the Vonderheide flood protection law was made a special order of business in the senate for 2 p. m. Wednesday. In securing this further delay of one week Senator Garver won a partial victory. Opponents of the measure, however, say they are confident of ultimate victory.

The Cowan bill, which places a bounty of $1 against every hawk's head, now needs only the governor's signature to make it a law. The bill was passed by the senate. It previously had passed the house.

There will be no more shipments of liquors as eggs, books, china, glass or peaches, if a bill introduced by Senator Vollenweider of Vinton county is successful in running the gantlet of the legislature. The bill would require the shipper to print on the outside of the package the exact contents of the package, whether it be whisky, beer or gin. The label must be in English.

CZAR'S MEN HAVE ADVANTAGE ALL ALONG THE LINE

Russians Claim Gains In Poland, Galicia and Bukowina.

ENEMY SUFFERS HEAVY LOSSES

Austria Reports Russians as Making Desperate Efforts to Retake Mountain Heights of the Carpathians, but Without Success—Germans Still Bombarding Ossowiec—Operations in the Eastern Zone.

London, March 4.—Judging from dispatches arriving from Petrograd and the front of the eastern war zone, Russia at the present time holds the advantage in Poland, Galicia, the Carpathians and Bukowina.

In north Poland the drive of Marshal Von Hindenburg's army, it is claimed, has been driven back from the extreme eastern points reached, and is now being pressed west and north to the East Prussian frontier. The Austrian drive in east Galicia has struck against a stone wall of Russian troops, accomplishing nothing strategically important, and it is added losing an enormous number of men for its pains. One Austrian attempt to jam through the Russian line at Lupkow, in order to flank and relieve the hard pressed garrison at Frzemysl, was checked, it is reported, with great losses to them. Austria, it is said, has gone over to the German tactics and now charges in close formations, which allow the machine guns to do fearful havoc.

German dispatches tell of the continued bombardment of Ossowiec, which they have been assaulting for five days. A dispatch reports that the Germans have silenced the guns of two forts.

A dispatch from Warsaw reports that a German aviator appeared over Warsaw. He began dropping bombs in the fashionable residential district, and although many windows were shattered by the detonations, there were no casualties.

A dispatch from Galicia declares that the Russians are making desperate attempts to retake the mountain heights of the Carpathians taken by the Austrians last week, but without success. The Russian losses were very heavy. The percentage of mortality among the wounded is very high, because of the heavy snowstorms, which have been almost continuous.

ADVANCES MADE BY THE FRENCH

Paris, March 4.—The following communication was issued by the war office: "The Germans resumed the bombardment of Rheims. Incendiary shells

HAMIL BEY MAKES SPEECH

Athens, March 4.—A dispatch from Constantinople says that Hamil Bey, president of the chamber of deputies, in a long speech in parliament declared that the Ottoman army is carefully perfecting plans for another invasion of Egypt and will shortly deliver a decisive blow "to liberate the country from the enemy's tyranny." Hamil Bey said it was improbable the Dardanelles would be forced, but if the enemy got through it would only increase Ottoman determination. "The enemy will find the greatest part of the army gathered around Constantinople," continued Hamil Bey. "Measures have been devised to meet every possibility. If we have to die it will not be until our duty is fulfilled."

TURKISH SIDE OF ARGUMENT

Paris, March 4.—The French ministry of marine announced that the bombardment of the inner forts of the Dardanelles has been resumed, confirming a dispatch from Athens which stated that five ships of the Anglo-French fleet had entered the strait and resumed cannonading, while four other vessels attacked Turkish positions on the Gulf of Saros.

The Turkish version of the Dardanelles operations is given in the following official statement: "The Anglo-French fleet bombarded the Dardanelles again for three hours, but was compelled to retire owing to the accurate fire of our batteries. Four French battleships simultaneously but unsuccessfully bombarded our positions on the Gulf of Saros."

An attempt on the part of the allied fleet to land troops on the Turkish isthmus was reported in an Athens dispatch to have been repulsed.

Athens reports that the allies now have a total of fifty-two warships in their fleet at the Dardanelles. It is added that Turkey now realizes that the situation is becoming critical. Defenses are being thrown up hastily at different points along the coasts of Asia Minor and troops are being rushed from the vilayets of Smyrna to the Dardanelles.

When Love Reawakened

The Reunion After Both Had Suffered.

By MARIE SYLVESTER.

Katherine Denton was a not unusual product of a workaday great city, yet was she an exception to her sisters. In years she was twenty-two when Dwight Sanborn first knew her, and, added to physical attractiveness, was an indefinable something that reminded you of Dresden china or dainty, delicate silks—something alien to a strident, jostling world of dollars and duns.

Miss Denton was a stenographer in the law office where young Sanborn worked after graduation from the law school and where he subsequently earned a junior partnership. In the first days of apprenticeship to the law he remembered more of Browning than of Blackstone and quoted the philosopher Kant to the neglect of the legal text.

It was similarity in taste that first brought the young people closer than stenographer and employer. Sanborn was dictating a petition to be filed in an action for breach of promise, and his levity evidenced his distaste of the task.

Flippantly he quoted from Mrs. Browning's immortal sonnet, which the incautious defendant had incorporated in a letter destined to be an exhibit in the case:

I love thee with a love I seemed to lose
With my lost saints. I love thee with the breath, smiles—

The rest escaped him.

"Smiles!" he repeated, in an effort to remember, when Miss Denton interrupted:

Smiles, tears of all my life, and if God choose
I shall but love thee better after death.

The repetition was impersonal, of course, and the young woman let escape her the repressed tenseness of the tones which told of sympathy with the heart that gave the sentiment to the world and more than that to a man who could inspire it.

Sanborn laughed, thanked her for completing the quotation and finished outlining the petition. Afterward he remembered, and a day or two later a daintily bound volume of the Portuguese sonnets reached Miss Denton's desk with Sanborn's card. That was the beginning.

Love came quickly to both of them, and scarcely a year elapsed until Katherine Denton was Katherine Sanborn. Courtship days were dreams of accomplishment and development of higher ideals they believed they wanted to realize.

But, while the woman loved and lived and dreamed, the man deteriorated to the typically masculine. He became brilliant in manipulation of the law's intricacies and was made a regularly retained counsel to a number of immense and important corporations. His days at the office were filled with the law, and the evenings at home felt the dominating influence of ambition's passion.

Instead of the dreams of sweetheart days, everything was subordinated to the quest for legal success. And to Katherine came the thought that even in his profession ideals had been dethroned and new gods set up for adoration and devotion, for Sanborn was at his best when plotting a corporation craft through mazes that baffled the intent of the statutes.

"I'm losing the man I married," she cried to herself in the solitude of neglected wifehood. "He's slipping, slipping, and I cannot prevent it, cannot hold him."

With disillusionment came unrest, with unrest rebellion. To the woman it seemed that all that life held worth while was being taken from her. She was envious as the wife of a brilliant man, one destined to acquire great wealth, but these were not desirable to her.

"Sometimes I'm not quite happy," she told him falteringly one night when he remarked her apparent illness.

"Nonsense, little girl! We're getting along famously," he told her.

"You are," she answered dully.

"Well, it's for us both," was his reply, but it did not satisfy.

For three years she endured it, and because there were only the two of them life grew lonelier and lonelier until in a moment of desperate aberration she fled his house and left a note bidding him not to seek her.

At first she was in doubt where to turn. She had a little money and felt sure she could secure a position as stenographer and that a few weeks would enable her to regain her old time cleverness in the calling. Then she reflected that Sanborn would naturally seek her in the field of her former employment.

She thought of nursing, and it seemed a haven. To forget one's own griefs in comforting others in distress appealed to her. A fortnight after her flight she was a student nurse in a private sanitarium under the direction of a kindly old physician who had known and loved the girl since her earliest days in New York. Wisdom had come to him with years, and he knew that a few months of the seclusion she sought would bring clearer vision.

At the first shock Sanborn was high to insanity. That his Katherine was discontented he had not believed. Yet in her note he saw what they had missed because of his money madness. Right—she was a million times right, he told himself bitterly, and could he find her again they would begin together at the start and, please God, go this time right. But search was unavailing.

Then came the breakdown, complete, miserable, and the physician prescribed the sanitarium where his wife was learning the rudiments of nursing. Sanborn was put in a room in a part of the building where only the graduate nurses were usually allowed; consequently it was some days before Katherine knew the roof that sheltered her housed Dwight.

The physician installed her in a room adjoining Sanborn's and explained enough of the situation to the nurse in charge to secure her as ally in what he hoped to accomplish.

"Hang your medicines! I want Katherine. Do you hear? Get her!" she heard one morning in commanding tones. She started, listened again to his voice in delirium, then peeked cautiously through a half opened door.

He was hardly recognizable, this sorrow faced patient with sunken cheeks and bulging eyes. With a quick little cry of pity and love she ran to him.

"Dwight, Dwight," she sobbed, "here is Katherine! Here, dear! Don't you know me?"

"Go away! You're not Katherine. She left me. I've lost her, and I want her. I want her!" And tears came to his eyes, as they did to hers.

The wise old doctor permitted her to assist in the nursing, but there were times when she was rigidly excluded. The exclusion hurt her, but the doctor was inexorable, and obedience is the first requirement in a resort of the kind, so she had to obey.

It was the morning of the 1st of June. Katherine was in the room adjoining her husband when she heard him call.

"Oh, Katherine!" And there was a naturalness in the tones that indicated returned reason. She dropped the book she had to rush to him, and in his eyes were remembrance and clear understanding.

"Katherine, it was you, then. I—I thought I dreamed it."

"I'm sorry, Dwight, sorrier than I can tell you. It was all wrong, my going away. I—I want forgiveness," she whispered.

"Forgiveness? You? Rather I should ask it. It has been hard. It seemed cruel, but perhaps it was for our good, sweetheart. The boy you used to love is coming back—coming back—coming back, sweetheart."

For a moment he lay silent, his eyes closed. Then he started.

"The birds, dearest, the birds?" he asked.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Bright's Disease.

There are two forms of Bright's disease, acute and chronic, which, according to statistics compiled by the United States government, kills thousands of persons every year. The duration of the acute form is on the average from two to six weeks. The treatment prescribed by the attending physician must be rigidly carried out, for if this is not done death is apt to occur.

Chronic Bright's disease is sometimes secondary to the acute form, but it is very often primary. The treatment of this chronic disease is largely dietetic and hygienic. The patient must live a life of quiet and rest. The diet must be free from meat and all foods which cause indigestion. Sometimes an all milk diet proves to be the most suitable. The activity of the skin must be increased by daily warm baths. The use of alcoholic beverages must be given up absolutely. The intestinal canal must be kept free from undigested, fermenting foods. For this purpose a daily dose of epsom salts should be given—two teaspoonfuls in three-quarters of a glass of cold water half an hour before breakfast every morning. Medical treatment alone is of little value. Unless the entire mode of living is changed and bad habits given up there is small chance of living for even a few years.

Getting On.

"How are you getting on with your photography?"
"Well," answered the young man with brown finger tips, "I'm doing better. The snapshot portrait I took of Mr. Curmudge must have been recognizable."

"You are sure of that?"
"Perfectly, for as soon as Curmudge saw it he said he could whip the man who made that picture."

ANOTHER SUIT GROWS OUT OF LEASE OF FAYETTE FARM

Another suit over the rental of a farm was filed in Common Pleas court Thursday by Wade K. Vincent who obtained a temporary injunction against W. J. Baughn, John D. McMahon and Glenn Rankin, the last named holding the positions of justice and constable, respectively, of Jasper township.

Plaintiff claims that the defendant, Baughn, owns a farm of 78½ acres in Union township, and on Feb. 26, 1913, rented the farm to plaintiff for one year with the privilege of five, providing the plaintiff abode by the contract.

Plaintiff claims he complied with contract and made arrangements to stay on the farm this year, and the defendant, Baughn, rented the farm to another man for more money, and ordered plaintiff to vacate the premises. Suit was filed in December 1914, and the jury's verdict was for the plaintiff in the present action. On March 2nd defendant filed action in Justice McMahon's court and plaintiff was notified to appear March 5th.

Plaintiff claims the defendant's actions have been malicious, and that he, the plaintiff, is hampered in his farm work by suits filed, and asks that the justice court be restrained, and that the defendant be enjoined from interfering with his farm work. He also asks that damages in the sum of $500 be awarded him. The temporary restraining order was issued.

Attorney F. A. Chaffin represents the plaintiff.

COMPLIMENTARY OFFER EXTENDED LOCAL ARTIST

Miss Bess Bruce Cleveland, whose artistic illustrating has won for her wide recognition, has received a flattering offer to illustrate a forthcoming scientific text book on the flora of Florida.

In order to gather the desired material it will be necessary for her to spend some time in Florida and the author of the book, Mrs. Tibbetts, has extended an invitation to be her guest at St. Petersburg, Fla., during her southern sojourn.

Miss Cleveland has not yet definitely decided in regard to her acceptance of the offer, but is considering it favorably.

NIGHT SESSION OF COMMON PLEAS COURT

One of the first night sessions of the common pleas court held for a long time, took place Wednesday night when attorneys in the case of the Masonic Temple Company against E. E. Bope et al., argued the special points of law.

The case was then continued over until Thursday afternoon, when the arguments were opened. It was expected that the case would go to the jury late Thursday evening. E. L. Bush and John Logan represent the plaintiff, and O. L. Rider, of St. Louis, represents the main defendant.

THOMAS HARPER.

The Fatal Force of Habit.

How the force of habit may endanger an otherwise perfect disguise is illustrated in a story told by an Italian count who arrived recently in New York. When the war broke out he was motoring in Germany with his wife and chauffeur. At Carlsbad he met a British officer who was an old friend and who asked permission to join his party in order to get out of the country. The chauffeur accordingly became a manservant and the officer took his place. The motorists were arrested nine times before they safely reached France, and only once was the officer suspected. That was when he instinctively returned the military salute of a sentry who stopped the car.—Manchester Guardian.

BAGGING A HIPPO.

How It Is Done and How the Flesh of the Animal Tastes.

There are two ways of bagging a hippopotamus, says a writer in the Wide World Magazine, and neither is justified unless the sportsman is sorely in want of food, for its meat is very poor indeed and wants a good deal of preparation to be palatable to any one except the starving. It has a taste I can only describe as fishy, something what beef would taste like after being wrapped up for a couple of days with a Scotch haddock of doubtful freshness.

The hippo may be shot in water. When mortally wounded he will sink and will not reappear on the surface for several hours, consequently a tiring lookout has to be kept for the carcass. If he is only slightly wounded he may charge, but more often he will flee and die in the reeds to serve as food for scavenger birds or crocodiles.

The other and more sporting way is to shoot him on land. This is, as a rule, only possible at night or late in the evening and early in the morning. It would not be wise to find oneself between the river and the wounded hippo, for he at once makes for the water by the shortest route, and he goes so fast that getting out of his way requires pretty speedy feet and great coolness of nerve.

FORCES OF NATURE.

Soft Their Touch, but Constant and Effective Their Work.

What adds to the wonder of the earth's crust is that the millstones that did the work and are still doing it are the gentle forces that career above our heads—the sunbeam, the cloud, the air, the frost. The rain's gentle fall, the air's velvet touch, the sun's noiseless rays, the frost's exquisite crystals, these combined are the agents that crush the rocks, pulverize the mountains and transform continents of sterile granite into a world of fertile soil.

It is as if baby fingers did the work of powder and dynamite. Give the clouds and the sunbeams time enough and the Alps and the Andes disappear before them or are transformed into plains where corn may grow and cattle graze.

The snow falls as lightly as down and lies almost as lightly, yet the crags tumble beneath it; compacted by gravity, out of it grew the tremendous ice sheet that ground off the mountain summits, that scooped out lakes and valleys and modeled our northern landscapes as the sculptor his clay image.—John Burroughs.

The Distinguished Guest.

Captain Raabe was a man whose name had weight in the French cavalry. He was a tall man, belonging to the middle aged trooper type. With military qualities of the highest kind, he had a singular bearing, a savage sort of misanthropy and a cynical tongue, which stood in the way of promotion. When he was in the Sixth lancers, on garrison duty at Commercy, one of his comrades brought his father to dine with him at the officers' mess, a man of humble position and unpretentiously dressed. Captain Raabe, considering that this guest had not been fitly received, gave expression to his opinion, saying that if the executioner of Commercy had come in evening dress he would have had a better reception. The officers demurring, he made no rejoinder, but shortly afterward came to mess with a guest whose dress was irreproachable. Every one lavished attentions on the unknown. When dinner was over Captain Raabe, raising his glass, proposed the health of "the executioner of Commercy."

Reason Enough.

Critic as the composer plays his last piece—Very fine indeed. But what is that passage which makes the cold chills run down the back? Composer—That is where the wanderer has the hotel bill brought to him.—Fliegende Blätter.

Too Plain Spoken.

He—I wish you'd drop the "Mister" and call me plain George. She—Oh, but it would be unkind to twit you on your personal appearance that way.—St. Louis Democrat.
